N. W. MISSOURI UNION NEARER

PLANS FOR DISTRICT CHAMBER OF COMMERCE UNDER WAY.

LOCAL MEN PRESENT

M. E. Selecman Is Made Member of Organization Committee—A Second Meeting Soon.

Northwest Missouri is a step nearer to having a district chamber of commerce or community association as a result of a meeting held yesterday in Cameron by representatives of the majority of the counties in this section of the state. This initial meeting was held following a suggestion sent out by the Princeton Chamber of Commerce that Northwest Missouri should have a district organiaztion.

A temporary president and secretary were elected and a committee of seven was chosen to work with these officers in formulating plans for a permanent organization. H. H. Carlisle, president of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, was elected temporary president, and Robert E. Coleberg, secretary of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce, was named temporary secretary.

J. F. Hull, M. E. Selecman and E. C. Curfman represented the Maryville Chamber of Commerce at this meeting. Mr. Selecman was chosen a member of the organization committee.

The members of the organization committee named to work with the temporary officers in drawing up suitable plans for a permanent association are: Walter M. McGuire, Carrollton; Marion E. Cox, St. Joseph; L. D. Dail, Chillicothe; M. E. Selecman, Maryville; Joseph Tate, Gallatin, and Mortimer Platt of Kansas City.

A second meeting will be held in the near future and an effort will be made to have every county in Northwest Missouri represented. Those attending the Cameron meeting were strong in the belief that such an organization would be of tremendous value in coordinating the various forces now working for a more prosperous and more progressive Northwest Missouri. It was pointed out that such matters as drainage, highways, legislation, blue grass production, dairying and the like could be efficiently sponsored by such an organization.

Short talks were made at the meeting by the temporary officers and by Mr. Hull; Harry Graham and Dr. Frank Fay of Chillicothe; Marion E. Cox, St. Joseph; Mortimer Platt, Kansas City; and C. P. Dorsey, Cameron.

Those attending the meeting yesterday were: E. A. Dickerson, Bogard; Fred Harrison, Gallatin; E. C. Curfman, M. E. Selecman and J. F. Hull, Maryville; Dr. Frank Fay and Harry W. Graham, Chillicothe; Marion E. Cox, St. Joseph; Walter M. McGuire, Carrollton; Mortimer Platt, Kansas City; C. E. Nichols and H. H. Carlisle, Princeton; and C. N. Stucker, W. H. Kimes, Robert E. Colebred, C. P. Dorsey, E. I. Urban, and I. A. Frazier of Cameron.

C. W. Kabel Attacked by Two Unknown Men

Maryville Man Can Give No Reason For Beating on Wilcox Road Last Night.

Saying they had been "laying for you for a long time," two unknown men attacked C. W. Kabel, 709 South Walnut street, about 8:30 o'clock last night a half mile south and a mile and a half west of Wilcox.

Mr. Kabel was considerably bruised and suffered a "kinked" neck, where his assailants had jumped on him.

He said today that he had no idea who the men were or the cause for their actions, as he knew of no enemies. He was not robbed.

Mr. Kabel had stopped his car at the side of the road and the two men drove up in a stripped Ford and then began to assault him, he said. Sheriff L. B. Campbell was notified of the occurrence.

Two Charged With Intoxicated Driving

James Newlon and George Ripley, of Clearmont, today waived preliminary hearing in the justice court of Judge R. L. McDougal, on charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated. They gave bond of $500 each.

The offense was alleged to have occured at Quitman some time ago. They were arrested by Sheriff L. B. Campbell.

GOSPEL TEAMS WILL CONDUCT TWO SERVICES

Y. M. C. A. Groups From College To Barnard and Quitman Tomorrow.

Two church meetings will be conducted tomorrow by Y. M. C. A. gospel teams of the College. In the morning the teams will conduct the services at the First Christian Church in Barnard and in the evening a team will go to Quitman to conduct the services.

The team going to Barnard is composed of Forrest Schaffer, Clifford Evans, and Homer Needels. The team going to Quitman is composed of Gerold Carroll, Roy Dickman, Homer Needels, and Clifford Evans. Karl Kettering, public speaking instructor of the College and coach of the gospel teams, will accompany the students.

The Y. M. C. A. gospel teams are now dated for practically every Sunday until summer school is out.

DAIRYING IS ON INCREASE HERE

MILKING COWS IN COUNTY NOW NUMBER 15,330.

LOAD IN YESTERDAY

Phares and Hosmer Increase Herd; Several Other Large Shipments Recently.

Dairying in Nodaway County has increased greatly within the last few years, according to local men in a position to know. A recent report by the State Board of Agriculture gives the number of milking cows in this county as 15,330, with 58 per cent being milked. In number of milk cows, this county ranks fifth in the state.

A carload of Jerseys were received yesterday by W. F. Phares and R. P. Hosmer for their farm, southwest of Maryville. This shipment came from Monett, Mo., and included twelve cows and thirteen heifers.

Jim Andy Ford has shipped in 109 head within the last six weeks which he has purchased from around Springfield, Mo. Nearly all of them were Jerseys, but there were a few Guernseys. Mr. Ford is finding a ready market for the sale of these cows.

Fred P. Robinson has disposed of some 500 cows and heifers, within the last two years. They came from southwest Missouri, Arkansas and Tennessee. Mr. Robinson is expected to have a load or two within the next month.

Joe Fogan has disposed of several loads in the county. He had two loads here last week.

Reports received from over the county indicate more farmers are milking cows now than ever before. Several loads have been reported in the Elmo and Clearmont vicinity. Other communities have reported receiving shipments.

Mrs. Thorp, Treasurer, Not in Auto Accident

Mrs. Bess Thorp, county treasurer, has been receiving messages of sympathy from friends, who have inquired about her condition, thinking she was injured in an automobile accident July 4.

Mrs. Thorp says she is not the Mrs. Bessie Thorp of Shenandoah, Ia., who was reported injured when an automobile which she was driving turned over on the road between Wilcox and Burlington Junction.

The county treasurer said first of all she does not own an automobile, and wished to have the public informed she was not in a car accident Monday night, and she is in the best of health.

Student's Car Found Near Country Club

Carburetor and Manifold Taken From Thomas Turner's Automobile, Stolen from College Grounds.

The Ford roadster of Thomas Turner, of Orrick, Mo., a student of the College, which was stolen from the College grounds night before last, was recovered last evening by county and city officers, two hours after Turner reported his loss.

The car was stripped of its carburetor and manifold. It was found at the side of the road west of the Country Club by Sheriff Campbell and Officer Atherton.

Sam Schneider and Ret Corrough of Arkoe were in Maryville today.

DISPUTED TAX PAID BY BANK

FIRST NATIONAL SETTLES WITH COUNTY COURT.

$3,399 INTO TREASURY

Payment Was Withheld Pending Outcome Of Suit.—A Similar Situation At Burlington Junction.

By agreement with the county court, the First National Bank of this city voluntarily has made payment of taxes for the years 1925 and 1926, withheld by the bank pending outcome of test suits in the other part of the state to determine whether national banks were not being taxed doubly.

Final court decisions recently were handed down which denied the banks' contentions and ruled that the tax must be paid. The agreement with the county court permitted payment without interest and penalties.

As a result of the local bank's action, the county treasury has been increased $3,399.63, the amount of its taxes for the two years.

The first National Bank of Burlington Junction had not as yet made a settlement, Fred Wright, county clerk, said today. Taxes due by the Burlington Junction institution are $637 for 1925 and $504 for $1926.

The two national banks in this county withheld this part of their state taxes, holding that the direct assessment of their stock, in addition to taxes on income constituted double taxation and was unconstitutional.

They joined with the other national banks of the state to test the validity of the law, which, however, was upheld by the United States circuit court of appeals and the United States supreme court.

The injustice claimed by the banks has since been rectified by action of the state legislature.

Judge E. T. Bailey of the county court said recently that he felt the national banks should not be required to pay the interest and penalty on the taxes while the case was pending in the courts. A precedent was set recently in Boone county when the county court there settled with the national banks by remitting the penalty and interest.

Mossey Remains in Same Condition

Conception Brakeman Regains Consciousness For Few Minutes Late Yesterday.

Cornelius Mossey, 21-year-old brakeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Mossey of Conception, who was knocked unconscious when his head struck an overhead bridge as he was riding on top a freight car at Conception Junction yesterday morning, regained consciousness for a few moments at the Sisters' Hospital at St. Joseph late yesterday. He recognized members of his family, but soon returned to unconsiousness and has remained in that state.

It is thought that he suffered a concussion of the brain. X-ray pictures of his head will be taken to determine the injuries it was announced today.

Receive No Word of Glen Farquhar

Mrs. Alma Farquhar, Elmo, whose adopted son, Glen, disappeared about two weeks ago, believes that her son is not far away, she said today.

The boy had a tendency to spend too much of his time down town, Mrs. Farquhar declared.

Nebraska Wheat Crop Suffers From Winds

Cut of 4 to 5 Per Cent Estimated by Agriculture Specialist.—Wheat Berry Shrivels.

Lincoln, Neb., July 9.—A cut of from 4 to 5 per cent in wheat fields in Nebraska is estimated by A. E. Anderson of the department of agriculture in Lincoln, as a result of hot winds that swept the state and hastened wheat ripening late in June.

The wind swept a belt across central Nebraska in which wheat was in within a few days of maturity and caused immediate ripening and consequent shriveling of the wheat berry. Anderson said wheat planted earlier in the south of the state was not damaged by the wind and he was of the opinion that later wheat might escape with minor damage.

Reed Calls Dougherty "The Foulest Insect"

Denounces Corruption in the Republican Party Before Meeting of Texas Bar Association.

Houston, Tex., July 9.—Harry M. Daugherty, is "the foulest insect who ever crawled across the page of time." Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, addressing the Texas Bar Association here this morning declared in closing a denunciation of corruption in the Republican party.

He charged the conspiracy to debauch the election in Pennsylvania was born in the cabinet of the president.

He branded Secretary of Treasury Mellon as the ring leader in corruption of the ballot in that state.

CHICAGO GAS STRIKE ENDS

COMPROMISE WAGE SCALE IS AGREED UPON.

TO REOPEN STATIONS

More Than 500,000 Automobiles in City Affected By Walk-Out.—Feared For Week-End Trips.

Chicago, July 9.—Prospects of a paralyzation of motor vehicular traffic in Chicago through the curtailment of the sale of gasoline was dissipated today when oil men and representatives of tank wagon and gasoline service station attendants unions agreed upon a compromise wage scale.

The men who quit work yesterday will be called back immediately and the filling stations were opened this afternoon.

Chicago, July 9.—America's second largest city—with more than 500,000 motor vehicles—today was in the grip of a gasoline famine, resulting from a shutdown of filling stations and a strike of gasoline truck drivers and filling station attendants.

Sixty per cent of the filling stations were closed last night, oil company officials stated.

More than 2,000 garages operating gasoline pumps were included.

Meanwhile Chicago motorists faced the prospect of a week-end in which driving over the country roads would have been impossible, due to shortate of gasoline.

Kansas Newspapers May Advertise Fags

Supreme Court Abolishes Law Prohibiting Advertisement of Cigarettes in Papers, Billboards.

Topeka, Kan., July 9.—The law prohibiting the advertising of cigarettes in Kansas newspapers was today abolished by the state supreme court. Cigarettes may now be advertised as well as sold.

The last legislature repealed the anti-cigarette law but stipulated that cigarettes could not be advertised on billboards or in newspapers in the state.

The court's action today eliminates the clause.

Chinese Forces Have Become Disorganized

Rebel Leader, General Chen, Meets Unknown Fate; Railroad Service Resumed.

Washington, July 9.—Chinese forces menacing Tsingtao have become disorganized and their leader, General Chen has met an unknown fate, Admiral C. F. Williams, reported to the Navy Department today.

Loyal northern troops and a brigade of white Russians succeeded in supressing rebellion, according to Williams.

The country was sufficiently cleaned of rebels to permit resumption of service on railroad from Tsingtao to Tsinam. No American forces have been landed in Tsintao, Williams said.

Babe Ruth Makes Two More Homers; Total 29

Navin Field, Detroit, July 9.—Babe Ruth passed his teammate, Lou Gehrig, in the home run race today, batting out his 28th and 29th homers of the season in the first game of today's doubleheader between the New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Miller will leave Monday on a several weeks' vacation trip to Lake Okoboji and Spirit Lake, Ia.

ROAD BOARD LAW IGNORED

JACKSON COUNTY READY TO TEST ITS VALIDITY.

MIGHT CREATE STRIFE

Powers Of County Court Are Challenged By Law Creating County Highway Commission, It Is Declared.

Kansas City, July 9.—Jackson County is prepared to ignore the new state law creating a bi-partisan county highway commission and today was ready if necessary to contest the constitutionality of the law.

It is said the law is in conflict with provisions of the constitution which created the offices of the county judges and county highway engineer, and defined the road authority of those officials.

It is held the new law would set up a body with doubtful powers, which would complicate, rather than simplify, the road machinery of the county, and that such was not the intent of the legislature when it enacted the law.

The court believes the law was enacted to enable the state to distribute economically the counties' shares of bond issue, defeated at the last session.

That a commission with powers established in the act would bring controversy, since it challenged the power is already vested in the court and the highway engineer, and would not achieve its purpose, is another contention of those opposed to recognition of the new law.

American Fliers to Seashore for Rest

Paris, July 9.—Thousands of Parisians bade farewell today to the flyers of the Fokker monoplane America.

The men left for the seashore for a rest.

15-Year-Old Auto Is Driven in Parade

The fifteen-year-old car of William Braun of Hopkins, today was driven in a two-car parade to show the development of automobiles since 1912.

Mr. Braun has driven the car, an Overland, since he bought it in 1912. He is now 76 years of age and still continues to operate it. A new Willys-Knight followed the old-time car in the "parade" around the square.

Moscow Establishes Censorship of Movies

Moscow, July 9.—The Soviet government has established a moving picture censorship "to safeguard the morals of the young." A Commission on Juvenile Morality and Cinemas has been set up within the Commissariat of Education and children may be admitted only to witness such motion pictures as have received the commission's stamp of approval. Exhibitors who admit minors to performances of pictures not specifically aproved for juvenile eyes are liable to a fine of 500 Roubles (about $250) or to six months imprisonment.

Czar's Death Cellar Now State Museum

Moscow, July 9.—The tragic building in the cellar of which the Tzar Nicholas II, his wife, the boy Tzarevitch and his sisters, the Grand Duchesses, were executed after their dethronment has been made into a museum by the town government of Ekaterinburg, now re-named Sverdlovsk.

JOHN DREW, DEAN OF THE STAGE, DIES

Actor Beloved of American Theater Goers Succumbs After Heroic Fight Against Disease.

San Francisco, July 9.—John Drew, dean of American legitimate stage actors, died at 5:55 a. m., today, following a heroic battle against anthritis and rheumatic fever, which lasted six weeks.

He was stricken at Portland, Ore., while starring in the drama, "Trelawney of the Wells," and was rushed here for treatment. His condition was grave throughout the course of the disease but the force of his own will and sunny, optimistic disposition he fought off the ravages several times and doctors became hopeful of a full recovery.

NO SUCCESSOR TO SHEFFIELD

COOLIDGE NOT TO NAME A MEXICAN AMBASSADOR.

REGARDED AS PROTEST

Administration to Remain Firm in Resistance to Present Mexican Policy of Confiscation.

Rapid City, S. D., July 9.—President Coolidge's decision not to send an ambassador to Mexico in the near future was accepted here today an another notice that the administration does not take kindly to that country's foreign policy.

Ordinarily, the resignation of any ambassador is not announced until his successor has been selected, and leaving of such a diplomatic post in the hands of a charge d'affaires for an indefinite period—as Mr. Coolidge has announced he will do—has aroused comment among those here who have followed the Mexican situation closely.

Furthermore the decision was taken as notice that there would be no weakening in the sterm resistance of the administration to Mexico's constitution, authorizing confiscation of American property there.

Developments in the situation are expected within a short time. There is now pending in the Mexican courts protest suits of American oil companies against interpretations of the Mexican constitution which would permit that nation to recover oil and other lands owned and leased before the confiscatory provision was adopted. A decision is expected shortly.

President Coolidge has assurances from the Mexican ambassador personally that no further confiscatory proceedings would be undertaken at this time, and there is a general feeling around the summer white house that the court decision may cause definite action upon one side or the other.

Mexican problems at that nation's capital will be in the hands of N. F. A. Schoenfeldt, an experienced charge d'affaires.

James R. Sheffield, who resigned yesterday as ambassador, is expected to leave here today for the East to sail July 22 on the Homeric for Europe with his family.

AIR LINE FROM GULF NORTH IS PLANNED NOW

Lincoln Plane Manufacturer Buys Wichita Company; Output Is Five Machines Daily.

Lincoln, Neb., July 9.—An air passenger line from the Gulf of Mexico to St. Paul is considered by Ray Page, Lincoln airplane manufacturer, he announced today, following purchase of the Swallow Airplane Co., of Wichita, Kan., and consolidation with his business in Lincoln.

Five airplanes a day will be the combined output of the two factories, Page said.

"Swallow" planes will be turned out by both factories. The Wichita factory is now constructing a large monoplane to be flown by Captain Irwin on an attempted transpacific flight starting August 12.

It will be equipped with a Wright whirlwind motor. The same type of plane is what Page plans to use on this north-south route from Mexico to St. Paul.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Groves will go to Hamilton tomorrow to visit the latter's parents.

TAKE HAND IN ARMS PARLEY

BRITISH, U. S. GOVERNMENTS IN SECRET NEGOTIATIONS.

SPURN JAPAN'S PLAN

Britain Must Withdraw Cruiser Tonnage Demand or Conference Will Fail.

Geneva, July 9.—Brief discussion among the leaders of the three partieipating delegations today failed to find a compromise basis for an agreement on the subject of cruisers, which threatens President Coloidge's naval limitation conference with failure.

The United States fully supported Japan's compromise proposal, which the Japanese estimate would reduce auxiliary naval craft of the United States, Great Britain and Japan by 30 per cent, but the British made no concession.

The executive session, composed of W. C. Bridgeman of Great Britain, Baron Saito of Japan, and Hugh S. Gibson of United States adjourned, having accompolished no more than to fix Monday as the time for a plenary session. At this meeting the delegates will make final statements of their governments' views.

Try To Break Deadlock.

Washington, July 9.—The London and Washington governments are trying by direct secret negotiations to break the disarmament deadlock reached by the Geneva naval conference.

Failure of the conference is inevitable unless the British government can be persuaded to modify the cruiser expansion program of the naval delegation, in the opinion of administration observers here.

Alarmed by the Geneva impasse, the London government, after rushing Ambassador Sir Esme Howard from the summer embassy in Massachusetts to Washington, has ordered him to remain here for direct armament negotiations with Secretary of State Kellogg.

Gone The Limit.

The administration thinks it has made major concessions to the British and is prepared to go no further. The United States has 95,000 tons of cruisers. It proposed a limited figure of 300,000 tons each for the United States and Great Britain, approximately the British present strength. Then it offered to discuss a 400,000 ton maximum.

Meanwhile Britain has held to its demand for seventy-one cruisers, totaling from 500,000 to 600,000 tons. Now this government is willing to discuss limiting of 10,000-ton cruisers—types essential because the United States lacks Britain's world chain of naval bases—to eighteen ships.

If Great Britain is unwilling to sign a treaty on a basis of these American compromises, the administration is willing to let the conference fail and put the blame on Great Britain.

Failure Means Arms Race.

Politicians here think the administration has already benefited tremendously from President Coolidge's initiative in calling the conference and by the American proposals. Failure of the conference under such circumstances would not react against the administration politically in this country, they think.

An armament race between the two countries—expensive in money and friendship—is considered an almost automatic result if Britain refuses to sign a treaty regarded by the United States as reasonable.

Officials are deriving some hope from Japan's position at Geneva, which is closer to the American position.

Durbin Visitors Leave.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Durbin and son, Cletus, left this morning for their home in Barberton, Ohio, after a week's visit at the home of Mr. Durbin's brother, C. P. Durbin, and family of this city. They were accompanied to Kansas City by Miss Marie Durbin of Oklahoma City, who was called home last Tuesday on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. C. P. Durbin. Her condition is much improved at this time.

Weather

Generally fair today and Sunday; not much change in temperature.

RELIABLE PLANES.

The "reliability tour" of airplanes, competing for a trophy, may not be so exciting as the flights across the ocean, but it is of genuine interest. The fourteen planes started some days ago from Detroit on a 4,000 mile flight, and will touch at a number of different cities in the eastern and southern part of the country. They are carrying forty-nine passengers.

The air tour is a race, but speed is not the chief factor in victory. The plane which carries the heaviest load with the lowest horsepower at the fastest speed gets the highest number of points. Scoring is as difficult as figuring out the winning candidates in a proportional representation election.

These tours—the present one is the second—have demonstrated to the satisfaction of airmen, at least, that the plane has greater endurance than the automobile. Says Glenn L. Martin, aircraft manufacturer:

"These planes are flying at full speed and covering 4,000 miles. At the automobile races in Indianapolis only 25 per cent of the cars that start are able to finish the 500-mile course, while last year 80 per cent of the planes in the reliability tour had perfect scores. So many planes had perfect scores that it was decided to double the distance from 2,000 to 4,000 miles this year."

This fact deserves wide notice. The general, non-flying public does not usually think of aviation as more reliable than automobile transportation.

The United States government issues stamps in denominations from one-half cent to ten dollars.

The body of the average man, weighing 150 pounds, contains ten gallons of water. Pour a half pint of alcohol into this ten gallons of water and you have a 150 pound fool.

BARBS

Mussolini says his successor hasn't been born. Perhaps not actually, but potentially he lives—and drives on every road in the country on every Sunday afternoon.

The Byrd flight turned out to be news after all—a transatlantic flight that ended as a Channel swim.

With no more Americans planning to fly to Europe right away, the mayors of the small towns of France can retire now with hopes for a full night's sleep.

Grass widows aren't called that because they're green.

A new show in New York is called "The Bare Facts of 1927." Some kind of a play about bathing beaches, we suppose.

A new York doctor paid $900,000 for an apartment. Ought to be able to find a place for his saddle horse for that much.

Why Not Nicknames for the Statesmen?

Writer Believes There's Too Much Dignity About Washington.—Submits Proposed List.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington, July 8.—The servants of the people, functioning in Washington and elsewhere as parts of the federal government, assume far more dignity than the ordinary servant, and it is very hard to find any humility among them.

Their success in persuading the multitude to take them seriously, as no doubt they should be taken, is probably responsible for the failure of the ordinary citizen to attach to them the sort of nicknames with which he tags others prominent in the public eye.

Certainly the hard-working officials down here are entitled to at least as much affection as the lady murderesses of Chicago, among whom there has been a long procession of "wolf women," tiger women," "hyena women" and so on. New York has never been slow to nickname its Rhinelanders and its Brownings and the spirit of the entire country was demonstrated when it made Lindbergh its own "Lindy." Washington alone has lagged behind in this great popular sport.

As a matter of fact, the great men of the land as found in high office are not such awesome creatures as to be robbed of this mark of popular esteem. Probably every one of them realize the vote-getting value of a good nickname, but how is he to nickname himself?

To fill this demand, your correspondent presents a few suggestions, as follows:

Chief Justice William Howard "Taffy" Taft.

Senator Earl B. "Pineapples" Mayfield.

Senator William E. "Lone Wolf" Borah.

Senator David A. "Fido" Reed.

Secretary Andrew W. "Moneybags" Mellon.

Speaker Nicholas "Baldy" Longworth.

Senator Edward I. "Red-Head" Edwards.

Secretary Curtis D. "Holy Willie" Wilbur.

Senator James E. "Tomatoes" Watson.

Senator Henry F. "Hot Water Bags" Ashurst.

Attorney General John G. "Turnips" Sargent.

Senator Claude "Walrus" Swanson.

Congressman Fiorello "Spaghetti" Laguardia.

Senator J. Thomas "Dirigibles" Heflin.

Wayne B. "Juniper Berries" Wheeler.

Postmaster General Harry S. "Deficit" New.

Secretary William M. "Kid-em-Along" Jardine.

Secretary Herbert "Mops" Hoover.

Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell "Whitey" Holmes.

Senator Hiram W. "Knitting Needles" Johnson.

Senator Robert M. "Chips" LaFollette.

Senator Arthur R. "Puddinghead" Robinson.

Senator Burton K. "Old Hawkeye" Wheeler.

Senator Frank B. "Foghorn" Willis.

Senator Thomas J. "Bull Pup" Walsh.

Congressman Emanuel "Hootch" Celler.

Fifty Years Ago

(Taken from the Nodaway Democrat July 5, 1877.)

This is fine growing weather.

Fall wheat is being harvested. It is a good crop.

We hear many complaints made about the condition of the sidewalks in various portions of town. This is a matter that should be considered by out "City Dads."

Mr. Will Patton of Quitman announces that he has just opened a new wagon shop at that place and is prepared to do all work in that line.

The monthly sabbath school concert for July was held last Sunday at the M. E. Church, South. The usual exercises were gone through with. A. T. Stephenson conducted the exercises. Mrs. Workman presided at the organ. Speches were made by Mr. Roseberry, Elder Dew, Rev. Thornton, Rev. Workman, E. A. Rowley and L. M. Lane.

We acknowledge a call from Mr. James Saunders of Graham on last Saturday. Mr. Saunders will be 83 years old his next birthday and his wife is about two years younger. They have ben stopping in the city for a few days past visiting relatives, among whom are W. C. Frank and wife and "Uncle" Jimmy Saunders. Mr. Saunders was born in Virginia. He was a soldier in the war of 1812 and left Virginia thirthy-one years ago.

Sheriff Cooper informs us that the growth that has taken place in the corn crop in the last eight or ten days over the county is almost marvelous. In discharging the duties of his office he had had occasion to be in almost every part of the county in the last two weeks. From his observations he is of the opinion, if it should be seasonable from this time out, that we will have this year much more corn than our people generally have been expecting. Wheat and oats everywhere are good.

We are furnished by Sheriff Cooper with the list of the petit jurors for the July term of circuit court. They are as follows: J. M. Holt, Adam Coulter, Robert Shelton, Jas. I. George, Elias Orear, Cornelius Mozingo, B. F. Kinney, John Cox, Pleasant Paschal, D. M. Vinsonhaler, Denton G. Porter, Wm. Crigger, G. P. Mann, Henry Rokes, James Storm, Thompson Anderson, Robert Garton, Wm. Green, F. M. Bragg, David Flin, Adelma Stingley, Jackson Anderson, Harris Jones and Joseph E. Alexander.

Gile & Southwell will begin the erection next week of an extensive shop in which to carry on their work, on the lot south of the Maryville Woolen Mills. They will fit up considerable machinery, the power to run which will be obtained from the mills.

R. K. Townsend and George Worst will commence in a day or two the building of two large new brick business houses on the corner lots in Union Block. Each house will be 22x70 feet, two stories high. Townsend's will have a basement the whole length of his building. Mr. Townsend has leased the room he now occupies to I. N. Albin. These two buildings will be a valuable addition to the substantial business houses of this city, and their erection speaks in commendable terms of the energy and enterprise of Messrs. Townsend and Worst.

Adds Dairy Sheds to Barn.

Lawrence Skidmore has raised the barn on his place just east of Guilford and is building a dairy shed all around the original structure. This will give him plenty of room for forage for cattle feed and plenty of sheds to protect his cattle. Mr. Skidmore is also intending to construct a large pond which will serve as a watering place for his stock and also as a fine place to raise fish. The stock of course will not be allowed to get directly into the pond. These enterprises, together with his one hundred twenty acres, will make Lawrence a very busy man such as he always is. —Guilford Times.

Apple Prospects Brighter

Independence, Mo., July 9.—Apple prospects in Jackson county are brighter now than at the beginning of the year, accoreing to G. W. Guengerich, horticulturist of the farm bureau. He estimates that the crop will be about 50 per cent normal and will be considerably ahead of last year's production. The apples, despite an excess of fungus growth due to the cold weather, are above the average in quality, the horticulturist said.

Professor of Economics and Magic to be Here Wednesday

Professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania in winter; professor of magic in summer—that is the unusual dual role played in life by Dr. Paul Fleming, who will appear in an evening of magic at the State Teachers College next Wednesday.

To classes of University men, Dr. Fleming holds forth in lecture halls on weighty subjects of finance, trade-unionism, and international trade. But when summer comes, he puts aside the cares of the class-room for the time being, and sallies forth to entertain, with feats of Legerdemain, mind-reading ,and Pseudo-Spiritualism, the summer students of colleges and universities. For he is perfectly at home when picking white bunnies from the crowns of unsuspecting gentlemen's hats, or causing orange trees to grow in empty flower pots, or transforming his assistant "James" into a charming lady.

This is how it all came about: For many years he was known only as Paul Fleming, the Magician. Then he decided that training in public speaking would assist him in his work. In 1911 he began the preparatory study which his early stage work had prevented, and in 1917 he was graduated from Swarthmore College with highest honors, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the honorary society for scholarship, and of Delta Sigma Rho, the national forensic fraternity. He has since received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Pennsylvania, where he is a professor of economics.

But he has not abandoned his first love—magic. Though the major part of his time is now devoted to teaching, some weeks of each summer are given over to the presentation of his remarkable performance of conjuring. In the summer of 1926 he appeared at fifty colleges and universities, where audiences were attracted not only by his perfect mastery of the technique of his art, but by his finished and graceful stage deportment, and his fund of witticisms and good humor.

Reserved seats for the Fleming performance may be obtained at Kuchs Bros. Students of the College will be admitted on presentation of a major activity coupon. The performance will start at 8 o'clock.

Potato Crop to Be Short Near Guilford

Those who have investigated and claim to know say that home grown potatoes are going to be scarce, according to the Guilford Times. The very early potatoes have made good production, but the dry weather hit the later potatoes just at the wrong time and so the late crop will be very small, that paper says.

Maryville Hatchery Closes for Summer

300,000 Chicks Produced Since First of Year.—Theodore Gray Also Practically Shuts Down.

The Maryville Hatchery closed today until the opening of the next hatching season, about the first of January. Miss Mildred Stirk, manager, left last week for Clarinda, while Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lewis remained to get the plant in shape for its summer rest. They left this afternoon for Creston, the home office of the company, which has other hatcheries there, at Osceola and at Perry, Ia.

It is customary for hatcheries to close during the summer, it was said, as the principal demand for chicks is in the spring. There is some fall hatching, but this class of business will be handled by the Creston plant.

Operations here will be resumed in the same building, which is under six-year lease. It will be idle probably until the first of the year.

Since the opening of the hatchery here early last January, 300,000 chicks have gone out from here, Mrs. Lewis said. They have been of forty varieties and have been shipped to such widely separated states as Wisconsin, Minnesota, Texas, Florida, Mississippi, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Colorado and even to Canada.

Theodore Gray, operator of another local hatchery, also has practically closed for the summer. One hundred thousand chicks were hatched at his establishment, practically all of which remained in Nodaway county, he said.

FARM KITCHEN IS IMPORTANT

IN MANY WAYS IT IS CHIEF ROOM OF HOUSE.

BEST ON NORTHEAST

Light Should Be Strong and Should Fall Upon All Working Surfaces.

The farm kitchen is the farm woman's most important workshop and is many ways the chief room of the house, points out J. Ross Fleetwood, county agent. Its equipment and arrangement may easily make the difference between a tired, overworked, worn-out housewife and one who has some time and energy left for recreation after the day's work is done.

In a discussion of the plan, equipment, and arrangement of a kitchen, it should be understood at the beginning that suggestions must be general in nature as no one design can meet the needs of all homes. In addition to the housewife's personal preferences which may modify any suggested arrangement, there remain other considerations as size of family and amount of money to be expended. No woman should adopt wholesale the plan of some other woman's kitchen without first assuring herself that it will suit the special needs and tastes of her family. There are certain general principles, however, which deserve study in planning a new kitchen or in replanning one already built. It is the purpose of this circular to discuss these general principles: (1) location with special reference to lighting and ventilation, (2) size, (3) floors and their material and finish, (4) walls and ceiling, and (5) permanent and movable equipment.

Location.

The location of the kitchen is usually determined by the plot of ground upon which the house is to be built or by personal preference, but a kitchen so placed that it is on the northeast will secure the advantages of the sun in the morning, and will avoid it when its rays are warmest if afternoon work is necessary, as is often the case in the farm home. Odors from the kitchen will be less likely to reach the rest of the house from a north side kitchen in summer when the doors are opened and the breezes are usually from the south. If most of the housework can be done during the morning, a kitchen with a west exposure is desirable as it is cool and shaded in the summer forenoons. If possible locate the kitchen so that dust will not be blown through the open windows from the road or farmyard. It is of much greater importance that the kitchen be so situated with reference to the barn and other outbuildings that the prevailing winds will not bring unpleasant odors or flies from them.

Basement Undesirable.

A basement kitchen is usually undesirable because of its distance from other parts of the house. Often it is damp and can be but poorly ventilated and lighted.

An attractive view from the window helps to add cheer to the work. A glimpse of the public highway from at least one window is desirable.

The more direct the connection between the dining room and kitchen the fewer will be the steps and the easier the serving of meals. A butler's pantry between the dining room and kitchen has the advantage of lessening noises and odors from the kitchen and of affording a place for the storage of dishes and linen. If the kitchen be properly ventilated as it ought to be in any case, and if built-in cabinets be provided the butler's pantry may be omitted and steps saved thereby.

Natural Lighting.

In the kitchen, as in any other workshop, the light should be strong, and should fall upon all working surfaces such as tables, stove, and sink. In order to get this at the best angle and to prevent the worker from standing in her own light, the windows should be placed in at least two sides of the room. They should be of sufficient height to allow a sink and tables to be placed beneath them. Forty-eight to fifty-two inches or even more from the floor is none too high for kitchen windows. However, the other extreme of placing them so high that objects on the floor cannot be readily seen, is to be avoided.

Double windows, with a single casement between, often utilize wall space to the best advantage. They may be made in the form of transoms which tip, or of casement windows which swing on hinges like doors. If built with two sashes the windows should slide easily from both top and bottom.

The number of windows will of course depend upon their sizes, but as a rule, three should be provided and, if wall space permits, four are better. The importance of an abundance of light and sun for merely sanitary reasons should not be overlooked.

Large rather than small panes are better as they are more easily washed, offer less surface for the collection of dust, and less obstruction to light.

Curtains, if used, should be very sheer, inexpensive, and easily laundered. Cheesecloth, scrim, swiss and voile are good materials.

Often it is desirable to regulate the amount of light and for this reason the windows should be provided with window shades of good quality. The badly marred, cast-off shades from other rooms should not be considered good enough for the kitchen.

In no part of the house are good screens more important than in the kitchen, for here the odor of foods is a great attraction for flies.

One of First Rules of Skidmore Neighborly Club is 'No Gossiping'

(By Club Members.)

The Neighborly Club of Skidmore began with the neighbors on one street deciding to meet in a regular way, with something interesting to talk about, and being further inspired by the Woman's Union of Oregon, the women organized the Neighborly club November 1, 1898.

Their first constitution, adequate for their needs then, is now a quaint cherished reminder of their first efforts and has been revised.

The object was to study some subject together, be neighborly and sociable. There were a few underlying principles more rigidly adhered to than the by-laws. It was decided that there should be no gossip. The members only exchanged news of family health as they came or went from the meetings. Again, they were to dress so simply that no member could feel embarrassed. When a new member came attired in splendor, her clothes were admired as a picture would be, but the old rule steadied and clothes did not govern. They have supported every movement working for the betterment of the town. At first they reviewed geography, history, and Literature.

They had miscellaneous programs with plenty of music. Later they studied operas, travel, Bay View reading courses, sociology, domestic science and now they find their most interesting work through the ten departments of The Federated Clubs.

During the war, besides working in the Red Cross, they, as a club, sent $50 and 165 pieces of sewing made by them to the A. F. F. W. (American Fund for French Wounded). They have often sent donations of food and clothing to the Sheltering Arms in St. Joseph and money to the Near East Relief.

They organized a band and paid the instructor one summer to encourage music among the children. Later the H. S. Orchestra was organized. The first Patriotic Pageants in this county for the 4th of July celebrations to provide safe, clean amusement was put on by the Neighborly Club on two successive Fourths and witnessed by immense crowds.

After the war, in a desire to help the Legion Boys furnish their Hall, they gave an all day reception, each guest bringing a book, putting 300 good books there, a nucleus for a town library. Each year they have Traveling Libraries from our State Library kept for all to use and enjoy. The Study Club of Skidmore, now a Federated Club, was organized by the Neighborly Club.

The Neighborly Club has always been active in a social way giving several parties each year for their husbands and friends and giving afternoon receptions to other clubs. The Neighborly Club joined the Federation of Women's Clubs in 1920.

The Tempting Salad Must Be Kept Chilled

That summer time is salad time is evidenced by its great popularity and the place of importance conceded to this course. It frequently is moved up from its position as accessory to meat to the main course for luncheon, simple family dinner, or Sunday night supper. There is no end to the combinations possible and but a single essential must be observed. It must be thoroughly chilled to serve. Chilling the plates in the refrigerator will do much to make the salad stay crisp and chilled on torrid days.

Stuffed Beet Salad.

4 cooked beets.
½ cup chopped celery.
2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle.
1 tablespoon chopped onion.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
1 cup mayonnaise.
Lettuce.

Allow beets to stand overnight in vinegar. In the morning scoop out the centers to make cases. Mix celery, pickles, onions, salt, paprika and 2 tablespoons mayonnaise. Fill into the beets and arrange on the lettuce leaves. Place the rest of the mayonnaise over the top. Serve very cold.

Victoria Salad.

1 cup diced cantaloupe,
1 cup white cherries,
1 cup white grapes,
½ cup diced pineapple,
½ cup diced orange.
Head lettuce.

Arrange the lettuce on salad plates. Mix the fruits, chill and drain off any juice. Arrange on the lettuce and serve very cold with French dressing.

Green Bean Salad

1½ cups cooked green beans
½ cup diced celery.
1-3 cup diced sweet pickle.
1-3 cup diced pimentos.
1 tablespoon chopped onion.
1 teaspoon salt.
1-3 teaspoon pepper.
½ cup mayonnaise.

Have all the ingredients very cold. Mix, using a silver fork and serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

Deviled Tomato Salad.

6 sliced tomatoes.
½ cup pimento cheese.
1 tablespoon chili sauce.
1 tablespoon chopped onion.
1 tablespoon chopped parsley.
1 teaspoon salt.
2-3 cup Russian dressing.

Arrange lettuce leaves on salad plates. Mix cheese, onion, chili, olives, parsley and salt. Spread some of this mixture over sliced tomatoes and arrange on the lettuce. Serve with Russian dressing.

Creole Chicken Salad.

1 cup diced cooked chicken.
½ cup diced celery.
¼ cup chopped pimentos.
¼ cup green peppers, chopped.
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion.
1 teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon paprika.
1 cup mayonnaise
6 lettuce leaves.
6 slices tomatoes.

Arrange the lettuce leaves on salad plates. Place a slice of tomato on each piece of lettuce. Mix the chicken, celery, pimentoes, green peppers, onion, salt and pepper. Place portions of this mixture on top of tomato slices. Add the mayonnaise and serve at once.

For Colored Embroidery.

When dampening and rolling up any article to be pressed that have colored embroideries or trimming, lay a piece of old white cloth between the colored portion and the surrounding material. This catches any slight fading or stain that might be transferred indelibly to the other part. A contributor says, "I learned to do this after having an embroidered oyster pongee belonging to my little girl ruined by orange and blue stains from the hand work on it.

When you upset the bowl of flowers on the waxed or varnished surface of your mahogany table, instead of using a cloth or towel, rush to your desk and get a blotter. The absorbent surface will soak up the water, leaving neither smear nor cloudy mark.

Attention Rests on Shoes and Hosiery

By HEDDA HOYT
(United Press Fashion Editor.)

New York, July 9.—A great deal of attention is concentrated upon shoes and hosiery this summer! Shoes for town wear have become less exotic and more standardized in type while those for sports wear have become less standardized and more exotic.

For instance, one sees quantities of black shoes upon the streets these days whereas last season or so ago there were only light tans and grays. Tan, parchment, brown, and rose-beige shades, however, still outnumber black. As to cut, plain pumps and one-strap models are preferred to ornate strapped and cut-out models as leather trimming details are more important than unusual shoe outlines for street wear. Many contrasting leathers are used such as the combination of lizard, crocodile or snake with calfskin of the same shade. Calfskin assimulating reptile effects are popular.

The sports shoe is attracting more interest at present than the street shoe owing to its variety. The flat-heeled model, designed for comfort only, is worn only where one actually indulges in heavy sports. Models worn for resort wear are high-heeled. Some of the smartest sports shoes this year are pastel linens in shades of pale greenish blue, rose-beige, nude, yellow, and green. Hand-embroidered linens are worn for dressy afternoon wear.

Shoes with woven straw vamps and leather rear portions and heels are both comfortable and smart upon the foot. As a rule the straw is multi-colored while the leather holds a harmonizing interest. Similar models have vamps of woven leather. Also interesting are tennis shoes made of gayly colored awning cloth. One can also find attractive models of Dresden cloth in soft pastel shades with floral designs. These are most attractive with printed linen frocks.

For formal sports wear, perhaps nothing is lovelier than the pastel opalescent kid shoe. Bright colored sports shoes are not nearly as important as pastel shades this season.

As to stockings, smart women are turning from rose and pinkish tans to yellowish sunburnt tan tones. Even with the all-white shoe one wears a sun-burnt stocking.

Flowers Are in Prominence Now

By HEDDA HOYT.
(Unitted Press Fashion Editor)

New York, July 9.—With the coming of Summer, flowers have taken possession of the Fashion World. They need not be real to be fashionable these days since real flowers, with the exception of orchids and violets, are seldom worn whereas everyone wears artificial flowers of some sort.

During the early Spring large realistic crysanthemum corsages were the center of attraction. At present, the corsage is smartest when it looks thoroughly artificial. Thus we find the flowered chiffon frock matched by a flowered chiffon flower of huge dimension. The petals are made by cutting the chiffon in arrow strips and joining them at the center. Plain colored frocks usually have flowers of self-material or harmonizing ombre effects.

For the sports frock we have felt, crocheted and leather flowers. Bouquets of vari-colored crocheted flowers are smart on shoulders of striped sweaters as each flower represents a shade in the sweater. Felt flowers in tiny bouquets representing Spring posies are smart upon the sports coat. Leather flowers usually match the leather hat and shoes.

Less costly than jewel trees are little pots of glass flowers which can be fashioned at home. A bowl or receptacle of some pretty coloring is filled with sand and the glass flowers are stuck in the sand having the appearance of growing there. Flowers may be waxed rather than glass if one wishes.

American Girl Students in London to Be Entertained by Aristocracy

London, July 9.—The homes of British aristocracy are to be opened to girl university students of the United States.

This is the result of an appeal voiced recently by the Duchess of Atholl at a reception organized by the National Union of Students, when in a brief speech, the Duchess stressed the need for showing American students the "true side of British hospitality," by inviting them to share the intimacy of some of the finest homes in the country. (The Duchess is the only woman member of the government, being Parliamentary Secretary of the Ministry of Education.)

In response, a number of prominent society women, including the wives of several members of parliament, became members of the "American Section" of the Student's Hospitality Council, thereby agreeing to be called upon to entertain in their homes one or more American girl university students who come to England upon the invitation of the National Union of Students.

Under the new scheme, not only will occasional dances be given in honor of the visitors, but the girls will ge invited to spend week-ends as guests of some of the most prominent members of the aristocracy here.

Entertainment provided will be of true aristocratic nature, the girls being invited to important social functions at which they will be introduced personally to the leaders of London's most exclusive society circles.

"I believe," said the Duchess of Atholl in the course of her appeal, "it is not by living in hotels or clubs, that visitors to this country can form an opinion of our people and especially in the case of American students who are likely to influence the life and thoughts of their countrymen in the future, it seems to me that they should be afforded every opportunity of meeting us as we really are . . . at home.

"That is why you are being asked to invite them into your homes, at your table, in your cars, on your country estates and I hope that you will be willing to do so.

"I believe that there is no country in the world with which it is more important that we promote better understanding than the United States and I thing this understanding will be greatly furthered by a mutual exchange of student hospitality."

Among those who accepted the invitation to become members of the Student's Hospitality Council are Lady Beecham, wife of the famous conductor, Sir Thomas Beecham and Lady Shirley Benn, wife of the Conservative MP.

The first students to arrive, a group of fifty who will reach London on July 1st., are to be entertained in accordance with the new scheme and plans to this effect—which include a dance to be given in their honor by Lady Beecham on July 4,—are already under way.

Miss Margaret Davison Gives Pointers on Care of Children

(By Margaret Davison)

Hot weather is generally anticipated with dread by the mother of young children. A great deal of sickness does occur during the second summer and many mothers think this is only an age proposition and blame teething. However, if the same care is given to the feeding of the child in the second summer as is given to the nursing baby, a great deal of trouble can be avoided.

The young children should not be taken out in the hot sun, nor be taken in crowds. Food should be very simple, and plenty of rest assured.

Meals should be given at regular times and no piecing between meals allowed.

If a child is delicate your physician may want these meals at shorter intervals, but he will insist upon the regularity.

Very little meat should be given young children, but vegetables, fruit, cereals, and milk should be given freely.

Children one year old may have vegetable waters, beginning with a teaspoonful and increasing to one tablespoon. Then after a few weeks some of the vegetable pulp may be given, diluted with milk.

Daily bathing is just as important, as during the year of infancy, and the clothing provided should be comfortable, and of proper weight for the weather.

If care is given to these details, and the first symptoms of illness reported to the family physician and his advice carefully followed, mothers would learn not to fear the second summer.

Salad Dressings That Will Keep

Caroline B. King of Ladies Home Journal and Country Gentleman fame offers these excellent, tried recipes in the July issue of the Journal:

Salad Dressings that will keep, no matter what the weather, are a blessing, and here are three that I can highly recommend:

Cooked Mayonnaise Dressing. Place in a bowl but do not beat or mix:

2 Egg Yolks
½ Teaspoonsful of Dry Mustard
1 Teaspoonful of Salt.
1 Cupful of Oil.
1 Teaspoonful of Sugar
3 Tablespoonfuls of Lemon Juice.
3 Tablespoonfuls of Vinegar, or All Lemon Juice, or All Vinegar.

Meantime cook two tablespoonfuls of butter with three tablespoonfuls of flour and when smooth add one cupful of hot water, and cook in a double boiler for ten minutes. Turn this sauce into the first mixture and beat vigorously with a rotary beater until smooth and velvety. Keep in a cold place and when required add other seasonings as liked, a dash of paprika or cayenne for a fish or vegetable salad, or a tablespoonful of sugar and a cupful of whipped cream for a fruit salad. Chili sauce, grated onion, chopped olives, chopped pepper or Worcestershire sauce may be added for sake of variety.

Pineapple Dressing is used only with a fruit salad, and it is delightful with a frozen one. To make it, beat two eggs to a light froth. Rub together a tablespoonful of butter, a tablespoonful of flour, two tablespoonfuls of sugar an a half a teaspoonful of salt, then stir in one and a half cupfuls of pineapple juice and bring to the boiling point; whip in the eggs, and cook over boiling water until thick. Add two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and chill. Before using fold in a cupful of whipped cream.

French dressing one may also make on cool mornings. Place in a glass bottle half a cupful of olives oil, a quarter of a cupful of cider vinegar, half a teaspoonful of salt and a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper and paprika and a teaspoonful of grated onion. Cover and shake vigorously until well blended. Keep on hand in the refrigerator and shake well when ready to use.

Transform this dressing to a piquant Russian dressing by adding to half a cupful of it half a cupful of the cooked mayonnaise, two tablespoonfuls of chili sauce and two tablespoonfuls of whipped cream, with two teaspoonfuls each of finely chopped green pepper, pimento, cucumber pickle and olives.

Italian Baked Beans.

Italian Baked Beans are very different from the more heavy substantial Boston bean that is so popular through the winter. They are lighter and more appetizing.

2 Cupfuls of Navy Beans
1 Small Onion
½ Cup of Olive Oil
3 Sweet Pickles
1 Bunch of Celery
½ Cupful of Grated Cheese
½ Cupful of Stuffed Olives
2 Cupfuls of Strained Tomatoes.

Soak the beans overnight or for several hours in the usual way, then rinse, cover again with water and boil them for an hour. Cook the tomato pulp and the oil together for half an hour, then add the chopped onion, pickles, olives and celery, and pour over the beans in a baking dish or casserole. Cover and bake slowly for two hours. Sprinkle the cheese over the top and return to the oven to brown.

SCHOOL HELD AT PARNELL

SISTERS OF PRECIOUS BLOOD IN CHARGE.

CLASS OPEN TO ALL

Religious Vacation Sessions Are Held Daily; County Health Nurse Visits Students.

(By FATHER ANDREW).

Beginning last Monday, July 4, a Religious Vacation School has been in operation at St. Joseph's Hall, Parnell. Schools of this kind have been opened in twenty dioceses in the United States this summer. The purpose of such schools is to give people, especially children, in rural parishes a better opportunity to learn and understand and put in practice the great religious truths so essential to good Christians and good citizens. The Religious Vacation School is still a new feature in the field of religious education, but during the past seven years of its existence it has passed beyond the stage of experimentation, and proved itself a tremendous influence for good, a powerful bulwark for rural religious life.

Open to All Denominations.

Although Religious Vacation Schools are distinctly Catholic in spirit, they are open to all, Catholic, Protestant, Jew, Gentile. The doctrine taught is Catholic, the patriotism inspired is American, the charity urged is universal. Everybody is invited, young and old, without distinction of color or creed.

The subjects taught are principally Catechism, or Christian Doctrine, Bible history, singing, special prayers, simple apologetics, sewing and games. A special health program is also included. Miss Margaret Davison, the Nodaway County public health nurse, assisted by Miss Margaret Bremer, R. N., held the first clinic at the Vacation School at Parnell yesterday. She will return next week to continue her work. Next Wednesday at 2 p. m. she will give a health lecture to the mothers of the pupils and other ladies who may wish to attend. All ladies are kindly invited.

Sisters Conduct School.

The Religious Vacation School at Parnell is being conducted by two Venerable Sisters of the Congregation of the Sisters of the Precious Blood from O'Fallon, Mo. The Sisters arrived from there last June 30. Ven. Sister Perpetua taught at the Catholic High School at Salisbury, Mo., during the past school year. Ven. Sister Hilda taught at the Catholic School at Flint Hill, Mo. They will conduct the three weeks' school at Parnell and return again to their regular posts of duty for the coming school year. They are highly pleased at the splendid class of people and children they found here in Northwestern Missouri and at the congenial spirit shown by the people of Parnell.

Thus far the school is progressing wonderfully well, sixty-five pupils having been registered and more promised to come soon. When first meditating the opening of the school some months ago, the Rev. Pastor at St. Joseph's Church figured on approximately forty pupils. But since the arrival of the Venerable Sisters, enthusiasm has grown so strong in favor of the school, that new pupils continue to arrive almost daily.

The Venerable Sisters are planning a thrilling little program to be given by the children at the close of the school. The pupils are under the Sisters charge daily from 8 to 12 o'clock. There are no classes in the afternoon.

Any one desiring to visit the school is perfectly welcome to do so.

Home-Made Soap Flakes.

If one cannot get her favorite laundry soap in flake form try getting the bars of soap and running them through the food grinder. The riper the soap the easier it is to grind, but in any case grinding is easier than shaving with a knife and yields a flake that is very quickly dissolved. It is well to grind several bars at a time and keep the flakes in a can until wanted. This saves time on wash day.

When Grease Drops on the Floor.

If grease is spilled on the floor throw ice-cold water on it immediately, or the coldest water available. This will harden the grease so that it will not soak into the wood on the floor to any great extent, and it will be a comparatively easy matter to clean the floor.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, is summoned to het little jungle-brodered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, by his young friend, VILAK, who is concerned for the safety of his beautiful cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, owner of a coffee plantation and other property near Porto Verde.

Several mysterious deaths have occurred, including that of TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise's foremen, and the girl herself has received warnings to get out of the country.

Vilak believes GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise, may be involved some way in the deaths. Accordingly, he and Nunnally set out for Prentiss' house, which is guarded by barbed wire fences and a vicious dog. Elise insists on joining them. Prentiss sets the dog on them and Vilak saves his companions' lives by chloroforming it into unconsciousness.

The next day Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnaped. Vilak finds the trail and in a few hours they come upon the child, deserted by its captors and being cared for by a gang of railroad workmen. Returning with the baby, Vilak gravely tells Elise he has bad news for her.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER 16

"Bad news?" Anxiety was evident in Elise's voice. The old man, too, who had been bent over in his saddle so absorbed that to the passer-by he must have seemed asleep, looked up with a start.

"I hate to be a kill-joy just when you are so happy," said Vilak. "But if you want to keep on being happy you'll get Tinky away from here as quickly as you can. Take the boat that leaves here next week."

Her dark lips tightened. "What do you mean?"

"Persons don't steal babies merely for the fun of dropping them on the ground. I don't know just what happened this afternoon, but as I told you I have a theory. And that theory prompts me to the certain belief that Tinky will not be safe until he is far from Porto Verde."

She gazed directly into his keen blue eyes. "You're not telling me that merely to make me leave?"

"No."

She hesitated. "Very well. I'll take him away. When the boat comes next Thursday. But as soon as I have put him somewhere where he'll be safe I'll come back. I personally will not stay away from Porto Verde. No matter what happens. I belong here."

"If a person happened to own an active volcano, he wouldn't necessarily be called upon to live inside its crater. I tell you again that your life is in danger every moment here and the dangers are increasing constantly. This affair of Tinky's may be just a development of that. I don't know. But I've given up arguing with you. My only regret is that there is no way of getting you out of here before Thursday."

It was dusk when they neared the fazenda and the two spreading castanho trees marking the entrance already had begun their melodious whispering in the evening breeze.

"I don't like those Indians. Er . . . Indians," the old man remarked suddenly, after half an hour's silence.

Vilak looked at him amusingly. "What Indians, Nanny?"

"Those half breed and Indian laborers who work for, er . . . D'Albentara. Not nice faces, Vilak. Not nice. Er . . . ratty. And that foreman with the big nose is ugly as a. . . a . . . er . . . er . . . he's ugly. How can a nice fellow like D'Albentara live with them? It would put my health completely out of order . . . yes, quite completely."

"You can't saw down a tree with a razor blade," Vilak responded. "Section hands aren't housemaids. D'Albentara takes what he can get."

"Which reminds me that I've got to do something for him to show my appreciation," Elise put in. "What'll I send him?"

"A little er . . . wine is always welcome," the old man answered.

"An excellent idea, Mr. Nunnally. I'll send him over a case of my best champagne, that Pommerey 1912, and some other wine for the men. They'll all be glad to get a change from the dreadful stuff they drink here all the time. Better for them, too. If Vilak will be good enough to take it over to them after dinner I'd be awfully grateful."

"I'll be delighted," Vilak responded. "I have a particular reason for wanting to go back anyway."

Grasping for support, he caught the hand of D'Albentara and the arm of the foreman.

After dark the two men set out on their horses again. Behind them rode one of Elise's ebony-faced servants, driving a little cart which contained one of the heavy stone jars used to transport wine in the region and a wooden case from whose cracks peeped fragrant wisps of straw. The reached the camp and delivered the presents.

D'Albentara was highly pleased. Giving the jar of wine to his foreman to be distributed judicially among the men, he opened a bottle of the champagne and drank the health first of Elise, then of his guests. They chatted about engineering, chemistry, the competition of the Brazilian railroads with the steam boats and the question of which would eventually win out, the cruelty of the jungle and its weakening effect upon the white man, the value of the jungle land when an overpopulated world would have to reach out for new fields to suply its workers, the myriad motley subjects that any three men of scientific instincts would talk about with a jungle encircling them.

As they chatted, the Indian and half breed laborers who had ceased their work for the night also talked and sat around the crackling fire and noisily drank the heavy wine out of their battered tin cups. But the old man could not understand their loud, sometimes shouted conversation, for when it was not an Indian dialect it was usually some perverted Portuguese patois of which he knew nothing.

The conversation of the white men finally drifted to the repairs on which D'Albentara was engaged. Vilak inquired whether he might see how they were proceeding with the fill where the river had cut dangerously into the banks. The engineer gladly assented. Calling over his foreman of the enormous nose, whose breath now reeked strongly of wine, they walked toward the river's edge. Here the soil was wetter and marshier than elsewhere and the stones which occasionally appeared above it were covered with a thick slime which made walking very difficult.

They had gone only a few yards when Vilak, usually so agile, slipped on one of these stones and pitched forward. Grasping for support, he caught the hand of D'Albentara, who was at one side, and the arm of the foreman was at the other. But the movement did not check his fall. Instead it brought the foreman sprawling to the ground as well. Vilak was the first to gain his feet. He aided the foreman to arise and began brushing off his clothes. "Terribly sorry," he murmured apologetically. "I don't know what the devil made me so awkward."

The half breed's shifting eyes glared angrily a moment. His dwarfed, knotted fingers seemed to start to the knife at his belt, then he smiled and gave an affable grunt.

"Tagos does not mind," D'Albantara murmured as Vilak still sought to repair the damage he had wrought. "It is nothing. All that goes up must also fall down. Is it not so? Once I heard an English sailor say this. And it is true."

The incident forgotten, they strode on to the tracks where the engineer explained in detail how the piles were driven, a retaining wall built of rocks, and earth piled into the vacant spaces between. Half an hour later the two visitors made ready to leave. The Indians and half breeds still sat around the fire drinking and shouting more lustily than ever.

"One or two of them look as if they might be getting a tiny bit tipsy," Vilak declared to the engineer, as they shook hands. "I hope Senhorita Marberry's wine isn't going to have any bad effects."

D'Albentara laughed. "Have no fear of that, amigos. The stomachs of my men are as iron. Good night."

They walked toward the road. "I feel proud. Quite er . . . proud," the old man declared, as they plodded through the marshy turf. You fell and I er . . . didn't."

Vilak chuckled. "Sorry to put a pin in the bubble of your self flattery, Nanny, but it happens that I slipped purposely in order to pull our Indian friend, the foreman, down with me."

The old man looked bewildered. "But why should you want to do . . . such a thing? You almost ruined a suit."

"Look at this," Vilak responded. He withdrew a small object from his pocket and flashed his light upon it so that the other might see. It was a ring, consisting of a thin gold band, set with a large black stone. The stone as carved in the fashion of so much of the jewelry seen in the remoter parts of the globe, jewelry crudely wrought but nevertheless masterpieces of craftsmanship, now depicting some mystical personage or animal, now a stiff conventional tree. In this instance the design consisted of what appeared to be a bird-like or perhaps fish-like figure with a single claw or fin. "Make anything of it?"

"Er . . . nothing. Where did you get it?"

"From the finger of the Indian foreman. I saw it and wanted to study it at my leisure. I pulled him down and fell sharply on his arm so that the pain I was causing him would allow me to wrench the ring away without being noticed."

The old man brushed a mosquito from his scanty fringe of beard. "It looks to me quite like, er . . . quite like the other native rings I've seen here. Do you know what it is?"

"No, amigos. But I intend finding out. What are you getting so desperate about that little mosquito for? Are you afraid that he'll destroy that feeble trace of a beard you're so proud of? Now I'm going to town for a few minutes, and then to come back to Elise's to spend the night, again. Events are approaching a climax, I feel sure, and I want to be there every minute I can."

(To Be Continued.)

In the next chapter Vilak rescues an Indian from a horrible torture, and Nunnally wonders again what sinister forces are at work in Porto Verne.

Graham News

Mrs. Chas. McDaniel entertained the B. B. Needlework Club at her home on Thursday afternoon. It was decided during the business meeting to meet only once a month until cold weather. A social hour was held during which the hostess served refreshments. The members present were Mrs. Dallas Judy and children, Mrs. Chas. Goodpasture and son, Mrs. M. M. Mowry and Mrs. Vern Cox. Visitors were Mrs. Claude Mowry and daughter of Kansas City and Martina Moon of Fayette, Mo.

Chas. McDaniel and Isles McNeil were St. Joseph visitors Thursday.

Mrs. Vern Cox had as her dinner guests Friday Mrs. Ted Wedge of Burlington Junction, Mrs. H. D. Moon and daughter, Martina of Fayette, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Cox and Robert Dean were Maryville visitors Thursday afternoon.

Burlington Junction

(By J. Howard Thompson)

The Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Ragsdale and daughter, Catherine, and son, Otho, went to Camden Point last Tuesday, where they atended the Minister's Retreat for the Christian Churches of Northwest Missouri. The meeting closed Friday noon, when they returned home. Miss Catherine, as a soloist, had a prominent part on the musical program of the convention.

A hail storm of unusual severety, visited this community at 5 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon. Hail stones as large as goose eggs, and untold numbers larger than base balls fell. The oldest residents say that never had they seen such large ones in all their lives. Much damage was done to roofs and automobile tops, which were unshielded. A heavy downpour of rain followed the hail, which lasted about fifteen minutes. Many ice boxes were filled from the fallen ice, and many others gathered the particles and used them in making ice cream. The damage to vegetation was slight, owing to the absence of wind during the storm.

A recent law enacted by the State Legislature empowers the county court of each county to appoint a highway commission of four reliable men, whose duty will be to "locate, lay out, designate, construct and maintain," county highways, connecting with the main highways of the county leading into the centers of population. They are limited to one hundred miles of such highway within the county. The four men whose names have been submitted to the county court from this section of the county for appointment are L. O. Staples and Sam A. Jones of Burlington Junction, Howard Bancroft of Clearmont, and R. I. Bilby of Quitman.

Tomorrow, Sunday, will be the last service held in the Methodist Church by the pastor, the Rev. J. Howard Thompson, until he and Mrs. Thompson return from their vacation. The Rev. Lane Douglas of Maryville, and a former popular pasotr of the church, will preach Sunday morning, July 17.

The next news letter from the pen of the writer will be written while he is en route to the Coast. The first stop will be made in Colorado Springs where he will stop for a day and visit the Garden of the Gods, Manitou, Williams Canyon and other places of interest. We hope to have a letter of more or less length, giving the results of our travels and observations at least once a week in the Democrat-Forum.

Last Wednesday Johnnie Jones, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Jones was nineteen years old, and in honor of the event his parents gave a surprise party for him by inviting in some of the near neighbors in the evening. Ice cream and cake were served as refreshments.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Howard Thompson were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sallee last Thursday for dinner. In the afternoon Mr. Sallee and Mr. Thompson went to Maryville, each having business in the county seat.

The advertising is being put on for the anual chautauqua to be held in Burlington Junction, beginning July the 29 and continuing for five days. An unusual program has been provided for this year.

Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Wallace and daughter, Erline, in company with Charles Hurst and Miss Eunice Kimmerling, of Tarkio, went to Kansas City, Saturday where they spent Sunday. While away they also visited in Topeka and Lawrence, Kan. They returned home Monday evening.

Miss Bess Kemper, a member of the High School faculty for next year, was in town on Wednesday of this week looking for a house in which to live while teaching here. She was accompanied by her mother, who will live with her and keep the home while she is engaged in her school work.

Word has reached Burlington Junction, that Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Corken of Denver, Colo., owner of the Stout Hotel there, have traded their hotel for a farm near Fullerton, Mo. It is reported that they will make their home in Pueblo, Colo., and doubtless engage in some business. They formerly lived here, and have many friends in this community who are always glad of their success. The writer was their guest at the Stout Hotel while in Denver last summer.

An innovation in the picture business in Burlington Junction recently been introduced. It is in the form of a weekly show for the public put on by the business and professional men and women of the community. The first show was held last Wednesday night and the Grand Theater was crowded. The show will be held once a week on Wednesday night for the next two months, July and August.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cochran, one and a half miles east o ftown, next Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. John Houston as leader and interpreter of the lesson.

The commissioners, consisting of S. J. Smith of Barnard, E. O. Gray of Piekering, and William Black of Maryville, appointed by the county court to inspect and estimate damages and make recommendations in the proposed improvement of the Cuyhoga drainage system, were here Wednesday gathering data and other information.

The Rebekah lodge met in regular session last Tuesday night, and installed the following officers for the ensuing term: Noble Grand, Anna Jones; Vice-Grand, Phrana Harris; Right Supporter to Noble Grand, Bertha Rutherford; Left Supporter to Noble Grand, Nellie Black; Right Supporter to Vice-Grand, Georgia Ann Graves; Left Supporter to Vice-Grand, Lucy Conway; Warden, Lavina James; Conductor, Anna Carter; Chaplin, Margerette Parker; Inside Guardian, B. A. Jones; and Outside Guardian, Homer Carmichael. Mrs. Leonora Johnson was the Installing officer.

Word has reached Burlington Junction that Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Jones, son Kenneth, and daughter, Dorothy, have safely reached Compton, Cal., arriving there last Tuesday night. They made the trip by auto, leaving here the latter part of June, going by way of Oklahoma for a few days visit with Mrs. Jones' parents. They made the entire trip without mishap of any kind, and had a very pleasant trip. They were accompanied from Oklahoma City by Robert Barber, jr., who has gone to the coast to accept a position.

The writer with others attended the ball game between Tarkio and the Nabraska Indians at Tarkio last Tuesday. The game was given free to the public and was won by Tarkio, the score being 9 to 13. Others from Burlington Junction were Mr. and Mrs. Arch Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Staples, D. E. Warren, Claude Thompson, George Yates, Dr. Cossin, R. H. Reese, Luther Fast, W. S. Spratt, G. C. Wilson, and Elbert Martin.

Neal Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker, is now receiving congratulations of his many friends, the occasion being his recent marriage to Miss Bernice Sears of Dallas City, Ill. The young people were married in Keokuk, Ia., last Saturday evening by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Poole, pastor of the First Methodist Church of that city. The bride has a position with a pencil company in Fort Madison, Ia., and in a few days will return to her position there. They will make their home later on a farm near Burlington Junction. Mrs. Walker is a former Nodaway County girl, having lived near Pickering, and is well and favorably known in this community.

The Corken family enjoyed a fine time together Fourth of July at a picnic. The event took place at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Corken, three miles southwest of town, and was attended by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Corken, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Corken, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Corken, and sons, Jimmy, Jerry, and Jack, all of Burlington Junction, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Corken of Hiawatha, Kan., and Mrs. W. C. Urban and son, Samuel, of Maryville. Mrs. Urban is a sister of the Corken brothers.

Ed Malvera of Quitman was in Maryville yesterday.

CLOSING GRAIN REVIEW.

Chicago, July 9.—Light trading in a nervous market featured all grains on the Chicago board of trade today, with closing prices slightly higher than yesterday for most futures.

Trading in the wheat pit was quiet, in view of the government crop report, due Monday. The cash market was unchanged.

Corn opened 1-8 cent higher to 5-8 cent lower but scattered buying in small lots sent the price up somewhat and at one time the July was quoted at 99 1-8. The cash market was unchanged.

Oats opened unchanged to 1-8 cent lower and throughout the session this pit was featureless. The cash market was unchanged.

Provisions closed higher.

Jelly-Fish Greater Menace Than Sharks

English Channel Pilot Blasts Legend of Man-Eaters, but the Others Are Bad Enough

Dover, July 9.—The harmless-looking jelly-fish, in all its innocent flabbiness, is alone an acquatic danger to Channel swimmer, according to Captain Learment, well-known Channel pilot.

Captain Learment guided Clarabelle Barrett, New York school-teacher, to within two miles of the French shore in a dense fog during her initial attempt to swim the English Channel last year.

"The ever-growing legend that sharks abound in the Channel is absolute nonsense," declared Captain Learmont. "I have piloted liners through the Channel for many years now and never have I seen a shark in these waters. Porpoises, certainly, but they are perfectly harmless. I am inclined to think that the alleged presence of sharks was an excuse for tiring swimmers."

Swimming experts here, however, agree that shoals of jelly-fish have often created havoc with a swimmer. Many are poisonous and a bite from them immediately neutralizing a swimmers efforts to make progress. They are as much to be feared as the vagaries of the currents in the Channel.

Jabez Wolffe, hero of twenty-one unsuccessful attempts, on one occasion reaching to within four hundred yards of the white cliffs of Dover, attributes many of his failures to the pernicious attacks of jelly-fish. His great bulk proved an alluring target.

Many a swimmer's training has been interrupted because of a poisonous bite from a jelly-fish. They are one of the many heart-breaking trials associated with the Channel.

Just another reason why the English Channel is declared to be the most difficult stretch of water any swimmer can negotiate.

AVIATION AND THE U. S. NAVY

AN INTEGRAL PART OF FLEET, IN WILBUR'S VIEW.

ACHIEVEMENTS CITED

Engines Improved, New Metal Developed, Distance And Endurance Records Established.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third and last of the aviation series.

By HARRY W. FRANTZ
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, July 9.—The United States Navy regards aviation as an important and indispensable part of the naval establishment and has made aircraft an integral part of the fleet, according to a deciaraiton of Secretary of Navy Curtis Wilbur.

The most important event affecting naval aeronauties since the war was the enactment by Congress in 1926 of the five-year program. The same law also defined the status of the operating personnel. The bill provided for the construction over a five-year period beginning July 1, 1926, of airplanes sufficient to increase the total to one thousand useful planes. It also provided for two rigid airships of approximately six million cubic feet volume each at total cost for both ships not exceeding $8,000,000.

A Secretary Named.

The law of 1926 also established the post of Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, of which Edward P. Warner is the first occupant. He has been identified with aviation development stince 1916. He is regarded as one of the leading aerodynamical experts of the country and when appointed was professor of aeronautical engineering at the Massachusetts Insitute of Technology.

In a report concerning naval air policy, Secretary of Wilbur said:

"Since the end of the World War the principal effort of the Navy Department has been directed toward the application of aircraft to fleet operation and the development of suitable aircraft for that use. It was largely pioneering work, as the experience with aviation during the war, concentrated on anti-submarine activities had not indicated clearly the role which aircraft might fill in fleet operation, nor was there any material experience in foreign countries which could serve as a guide.

"Progress in the art of aviation continues, and the importance of the work of aviation with the fleet increases correspondingly, but sufficient experience has now been had so that the present scope of aviation with the fleet is growing to be well understood, and the Navy now has reached the position of being able to lay down definite requirements for the small number of classes of aircraft to carry on the several, strategical and tactical functions of naval aviation. Steady progress has been made in developing designs of aircraft to meet the special demands of each class, and research and development are being carried on with the prospect of definitely continuing this progress."

Much Experimental Work.

perhaps the greatest contribution made by the Navy to aeronautical development has been in the sphere of experimental and reaserch work. Some of the Navy accomplishments reported officially are:

1. Built the first wind tunnel in the United States.

2. In the construction of the Shenandoah a new and important metal was given to the trade of this country—duralumin.

3. All postwar engines, both air cooled and water cooled, have been developed principally by the Navy in conjunction with the trade.

4. Reduce to five and to a great degree standardized the types of aircraft used by the Navy.

5. Designed the first large rigid airship ever built in this country—the Shenandoah.

6. Designed and installed catapults on United States vessels far in advance of any other country.

7. Developed the use of the Langley arresting gear, believed to be the best in existence.

8. Developed two planes of the patrol type, one of which (the PN type) holds the world's record for endurance for sea-planes. The other made the longest flight over water ever accomplished.

9. Established an aeronautical engine laboratory, said to be the equal of any in existence.

10. Made important contributions to radio communication and navigation.

Aircraft Carriers Limited.

Limitation on aricraft carriers was agreed upon at the Washington conference for the Limitation of Naval Armament. The tonnage limitation for a single carrier was fixed at 27,000 tons. Total tonnage was limited as follows: Great Britain, 135,000; United States, 135,000; Japan, 81,000; France, 60,000; Italy, 60,000.

It was agreed that each of the powers might build two aircraft carriers from ships already building and designated to be scrapped. Under this treaty provision the United States built the Lexington and the Saratoga, largest ships of their class in the world.

Although not primarily concerned with "stunt" flights, the Navy has had its share in the great spectacular feats which have allured the world's imagination. One of these was the first successful trans-Atlantic flight, made by Lieutenant Hinton in an NC plane in 1918, via Newfoundland, the Azores, Portugal, France, and Plymouth, England.

Naval aviation won laurels also in the Hawaiian flight of Commander John Rodgers. The first flight to the North Pole, although not a naval undertaking, was accomplished by Lieutenant-Commander Richard E. Byrd, a retired officer of the navy. His companion Floyd Bennett, was an aviation chief machinist mate in the Navy.

EASIER TO BUY A CONVENTION

FRIENDS OF PRIMARY SYSTEM REPLY TO ATTACKS.

REACTION IS CHARGED

"Predatory Interests" Seek to Corrupt Government More Cheaply, Says Robert L. Owen.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington, July 9.—It's cheaper to buy a political convention than a whole state.

This indubitable fact may not be foremost in the minds of those who would abolish the popular primary, but the defenders of popular government do not hesitate to assert that it is the principal inspiration of the anti-primary movement.

Former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, president of the National Popular Government League, who recently went after Vice-President Dawes for his attack on the primary system, insists that the whole thing boils down to a matter of economical corruption and says he can prove it.

Cost Has Gone Up.

"We've seen them buy conventions, legislatures and primaries," Owen told your correspondent the other day. "It only cost about $100,000 to get a Senate seat for Lorimer, but it cost Smith and Vare ten times as much.

Owen is among those who favor making it harder to buy high offices rather than easier. He believes, however, that Vice-President Dawes is perfectly honest in his views and has only been misled by his friends.

"Reactionary elements are trying to take away power from the people," Owen said. "The best evidence of the way they work and what they are after was the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars in a primary by the president of the manufacturers' association in Pennsylvania.

"In nearly a hundred cases of predatory monopoly whose evil practices were reported by the Federal Trade Commission to the Department of Justice, prosecutions were smothered. Are these predatory interests governing the country or not?

No Danger of Dictatorship.

"We are not likely to have a dictatorship in this country, as Dawes and others suggest. The good people still have control of the Congress and if the big fellows impose on the people too much the people will kick them out and make them behave—for a while."

It was recalled to Owen that the dictatorship bogey had been raised by a n[illegible] organization which perceived an organized campaign or ridicule against Congress, designated to lessen its influence and pave the way for a "man on horseback."

Owen thought it true that some of the abuse poured upon Congress might be inspired.

"I've read with great interest," he said, "a book just brought out, called 'Professional Patriots,' showing how special interests finance such organizations for private advantage. I think most of the contempt in which some men profess to hold Congress is the language of the superficial ass who would exaggerate his own ego by looking down on the Washington monument. Egotism, as has been said, is the anaesthetic which nature provides to keep a man from dying of shame when he realizes what a fool he is."

To Show Horses at State Fair.

Warrensburg, Mo., July 9.—S. Y. Saunders, Johnson County horseman and Missouri State Fair Comissioner, will show a string of animals in the light horse department this year.

5 LOCAL MEN WILL AID FAIR

STATE EXPOSITION NEARLY A MARYVILLE AFFAIR.

PREMIUM LISTS HERE

Bellows, Hosmer, Condon, Hamilton and Roelofson Among Those Holding Important Positions.

The premium lists for the Missouri State Fair at Sedalia, August 20-27, the twenty-seventh annual exposition, have arrived at the office of J. Ross Fleetwood, county agricultural agent.

Maryville has its share of representation in the book. In the front is a picture of C. D. Bellows, president of the fair, and director of these departments: Hospital, police, admissions, admission auditing, grandstand and the women's building. Mr. Bellows also is chairman of the entertainment and reception committee.

R. P. Hosmer, Maryville, will be superintendent of admission. The Fair book says of Mr. Hosmer:

"R. P. Hosmer, whose duty it will be to again this year marshal the crowds through the gates to the Fair Grounds, has perfected an enviable system for the management of large numbers of people. It will be his duty also to superintend the collection of all tickets. Each morning he will canvass White City and collect the gate receipts and the tickets therefrom. He will also see that the fences are well guarded so that the small chaps and perhaps some of the elders do not gain admission to the grounds some other way than through the regular channels. Mr. Hosmer is well acquainted with this work and the Fair visitors will receive nothing but the most courteous treatment."

Other Maryville Men Assigned.

Mr. Hosmer's picture also appears in the book, as does that of B. E. Condon of Maryville, who will be superintendent of the grandstand. Of him the book says:

"B. E. Condon has been assigned to this duty this year. The highly efficient manner in which he will handle the crowds will guarantee that all visitors this year will receive the same courtesies as last. His duties will be to check the tickets, and superintend the ushering of the crowds to the grandstand."

J. F. Roelofson, Maryville, will be one of the judges for draft and coach horses.

M. S. Hamilton of Maryville will be superintendent of admission auditing.

J. Ross Fleetwood, county farm agent, is county commissioner for the fair.

Seventy-five thousand dollars will be given in premiums and trophies at the fair and $25,000 will be spent in entertainment.

In the women's department $2,117.25 will be offered in prizes.

In the poultry department $3,000 will be offered and a new junior department is a special feature.

Counties to Compete.

Another feature is the county attendance contest. A total of $500 in prize money will be offered in the contest, divided from first to tenth places, inclusive: First, $150; second, $75; third, $65; fourth, $55; fifth, $45; sixth, $35; seventh, $30; eighth, $20; ninth, $15; and tenth, $10.

All counties of Missouri are eligible to compete in the contest, and a graduating system has been worked out which places all counties on an equal and fair basis in the competition. Thus, a county in southwest Missouri will have an equal chance with Pettis, for, in the registration of votes, Pettis will be handicapped to equalize the distance. This same handicap system will be applied to all counties; the closer they are to Sedalia, the greater the handicap and vice versa. This scale system to be used in the contest has been determined from the estimate of attendance in the past from all counties and their distance from Sedalia.

All prize money won in this contest will be paid to the county courts of the winning counties, with the stipulation that such money must be paid out as premiums to agriculture, live stock, poultry or horticulture shows held within the wining counties.

Iowa Farmers Join in Hunt for Slayers

Lineville Hardware Merchant Said To Have Been One Of Pair Who Killed Deputy Sheriff.

Leon, Ia., July 9.—A posse of more than 100 farmers of Wayne county augmented the sheriff's forces today in continuing the search for the slayers of Clint McConnell, deputy sheriff, who was shot down Thursday night by two bootleggers whom he attempted to place under arrest.

Armed with sawed-off shotguns, and with orders to "shoot to kill," the members of the band scoured the county for a trace of the two men, but late last night had failed in their attempts. Some of the possemen reported during the day that Sam Petty, a Lineville, Iowa, hardware merchant, suspected of being one of the two men who riddled McConnell's body with bullets when the deputy sheriff surprised them in their motor car south of Leon, had been seen with an unidentified man entering a thickly wooded patch about noon yesterday. A search failed to reveal the hiding place of the slayers.

McConnell died at 3:40 o'clock yesterday morning in a local hospital.

Louis Greenland, a Grand River, Iowa, farm hand, one of the two witnesses to the shooting, said he arranged to purchase a quantity of liquor from Petty and a companion parked in a motor car about six miles northwest of Leon. Petty, according to Greenland's story, refused to sell him the liquor when he was handed a check, and told the farm hand he wanted cash.

Greenland then said he went to Grand River to cash the check, and while there he met McConnell, who was in town to attend the funeral of a relative. Together they left for the spot where the liquor was to be sold. When the two bootleggers saw the officer alight from the motor car and walk toward them they opened fire and McConnell fell to his knees. Despite the fact he was shot three times, Greenland said, the deputy sheriff continued to pour lead in the direction of the two men, who sped away in their motor car.

A Pioneer's Records Found in Old Chimney

Fayette, Mo., July 9.—When workmen tore down an old property here recently to make room for a business house, a cavity in a chimney was a number of old bills of lading, receipts, newspaper clippings, and a few account books. The papers bore the name of David Kyle and date from 1806 to 1846. Kyle, a pioneer of Howard County, was a shipper.

Much of the merchandise was shipped from New Orleans and Richmond.

Miss Ethel Summers, who has been the guest of Miss Ora Eckles for several days, returned home yesterday afternoon.

Miss Katherine Schenck of Kansas City came last night to be the guest of Misses Mabel and Helen Todd and other friends until Wednesday.

An Army Damon

When Capt. W. B. Allen of Council Bluffs, Ia., was arrested by authorities at Fort Crook, near Omaha, Neb., and charged with illegal possession of liquor, Sergt. Charles Ellison (top), his friend, declared it was he and not Capt. Allen who had been arrested. Since Capt. Allen (below) seemed to have a good alibi, authorities were puzzled. Then at the trial, Capt. Allen pleaded guilty, which resulted in fines and demotions for both men.

1927 Cotton Acreage Less Than Last Year's

Washington, July 9.—The Agriculture Department today estimated that 42,683,000 acres of cotton were in cultivation on July 1. Acreage in cultivation compared with last year was 87.6 per cent.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Livengood of Elmo announce the birth of a daughter last night.

Awakened Sleeper Butts Locomotive

Harbin, July 9.—A track surveyor on his daily round felt the need for a nap and selected the railway track as the most convenient resting place, trusting the humming of the rails to awaken him in case of an approaching train.

The driver of an incoming freight train noticed the man and brought the engine to standstill a few yards away from the sleeper. An especially shrill blast of the engine whistle brought the man to his feet, and so dazed was he that he rushed headmost into the engine. He sustained heavy injuries to the head and was picked up unconscious.

Petroleum Rates Not "Unduly Prejudicial"

Washington, July 9.—Reversing a previous decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission today found rates on petroleum on export andcoastwide movement from Southern Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to Galveston and other ports atking the same rates are not unduly prejudicial.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hackett, Burlington Junction; Omer Strong, Pickering; C. P. Durbin, Wilcox; Joe Prather, Parnell; E. A. Montgomery, Quitman; Perry Earwood, Ravenwood; Earl Jones, Hopkins; and C. C. McDowell and son of Graham visited in Maryville today.

Moberly City Council Still in a Deadlock

Moberly, Mo., July.—Moberly's city council has no city clerk or a mayor pro tem. Efforts to elect these officers since the election on the spring have been futile. With eight votes to be cast in the efforts to elect the two officers, no one has been able to secure more than four votes, one less than a majority.

Deep Oil Test to Be Made Near Richards

Richards, Mo., July 9.—A deep test well is to be drilled in the oil field near Richards, according to the Richards Progress. A standard rig has been ordered and the well will be put down 3500 feet or deeper and drilling will begin in about thirty days.

Milk Condensory Is Planned at Sturgeon

Sturgeon, Mo., July 9.—Farmers in this section are planning to establish a milk condensery to take care of the milk surplus. An effort is being made to increase the milk production sufficiently to justify such a plant.

George Orscheln, is interviewing farmers in an effort to increase the scale of production of milk and butter fat. He is trying to induce every farmer in the section to start a dairy herd.

Whippet set the pace! and is still a year ahead

First in the field to offer 4-wheel brakes, greater economy, low center of gravity and increased roominess. Over 110,000 sales the first year set the record for new-car popularity.

Modern—The only light car offering 4-wheel brakes as national equipment.

Most economical car in America—proved in a nation-wide test among more than 5,000 owners who averaged 38.6 miles per gallon. Whippet also holds the A. A. A. Coast-to-Coast economy record.

Higher speed—You can do 55 miles an hour in a Whippet. Its low gravity center keeps the car safely hugging the road.

Quick pickup—Fastest of any car of its size and weight.

Oversize balloons—For extra mileage and added comfort.

Snubbers—Another reason why the Whippet is the easiest-riding light car on the road.

Adjustable steering post—Easily fitted to any driver of any size or stature.

Force-feed lubrication—the oiling system you find on the highest-priced automobiles.

Roominess—Plenty of leg room for tall people in the front seat.

Full-vision body—Narrow front pillars on the enclosed bodies enable you to see clearly on all sides.
